COLBY SUCCEEDS SEC'Y. LANSING

APPOINTMENT OF NEW YORK MAN TO CABINET POSITION IS SURPRISE

BAINBRIDGE COLBY, ONCE A REPUBLICAN, GETS RANKING CABINET POSITION FROM WILSON

WAS WILSON SUPPORTER

Left Republican Party When Hughes Is Nominated for the Presidency—May Stir Up Discussion in the Senate

Washington.—Bainbridge Colby, who is an independent in politics, with democratic leanings, was appointed secretary of state today by President Wilson to succeed Robert Lansing.

The appointment came as a great surprise to Washington officials and politicians who had expected the president to name a strong democrat to the post of ranking cabinet officer.

Colby until a few years ago was regarded as a progressive republican. In 1916 he supported Roosevelt, but switched to Wilson when Roosevelt refused to run as a progressive. He was appointed to the shipping board as an independent. Although he refused to disclose his politics, said friends, Colby is now a democrat.

Some politicians saw in the president's appointment of Colby an indication that Wilson believes party lines are being eradicated. In this connection they recalled his famous letter of congratulation to Calvin Coolidge, republican, when he was elected governor of Massachusetts.

Colby's appointment came as even more of a surprise than the resignation of Lansing at the request of President Wilson.

While Colby has been a strong supporter of the Wilson administration, he is generally regarded as a progressive republican and was actively identified with the campaign of Theodore Roosevelt for the republican presidential nomination in 1912.

Later he was a candidate for governor and senator of New York on the progressive ticket.

The first hint of Colby's appointment came a few minutes before the formal announcement by Secretary Tumulty. The early reports that he would get the place were not generally credited.

Following the announcement of the appointment Colby appeared at the white house and was taken to see President Wilson.

Following his conference with Wilson, Colby said:

"Good taste, I think, counsels the briefest of statements until such time as the senate has acted upon my nomination as secretary of state."

"I may say that I had a long and unburdened conference with the president which impressed me with the great confidence he reposed in me. I hope I shall not prove inadequate in performance of the great duties before me."

Colby refused to state what his political affiliations are at present, but he believed to have been decided upon very recently. Friends who talked with him in New York last Sunday declared he had no intimation of his appointment at that time.

Since Lansing's resignation, which was announced the night of February 13, Under Secretary Frank L. Polk has been acting as secretary. He handled the sending of Wilson's last note to the supreme court in connection with the Adriatic dispute. It was known that Polk was being considered for the appointment as secretary.

The circumstances of Lansing's resignation are believed to have been discussed by Colby and the president at a long conference this morning at which time Wilson went over with the new secretary the policy he expects him to pursue. It was learned. It was suggested that a "house cleaning" may be in prospect in the state department, which will put the handling of America's foreign affairs in the hands of an entirely new group of men, as a result of the clash with Lansing. The present state department staff cooperated with Lansing in the international dealings to which the president is believed to have objected.

It was not learned whether the appointment had been offered to any other men before Colby accepted it. But persons in close touch with government affairs predicted after Lansing's resignation that Wilson would have difficulty in finding a man for the place.

When Colby's appointment sets on the senate floor for confirmation, debate on the Lansing-Wilson clash is expected to result. Immediately after Lansing's resignation, a number of

RAIL MEN DON'T WANT PUBLIC ON WAGE TRIBUNALS

DIRECT REQUEST TO WILSON TO VETO ESCH-CUMMINS BILL IS BEING FRAMED TODAY

(By Ralph F. Couch.)

Washington.—A special committee of the senate today is framing a note to President Wilson containing a direct request that he veto the Cummins-Esch bill. Wilson is studying the bill.

The railroad bill was officially sent to President Wilson today. Speaker Gillett signed it in the house at 12:05 and at 12:23 Senator Cummins, president pro tem of the senate and one of the authors of the bill, signed it in the senate. It was then dispatched to the White House by messenger. Wilson has already submitted a copy to the department of justice for an opinion on its constitutionality.

Union leaders said they are prepared to continue their fight against it even if it becomes a law. President Bert M. J. J. of the railway department of the A. F. of L. said there are several steps the rail unions may take if the bill is signed by the president. One such measure would be a suit to test the constitutionality of the law.

The union men want the wage controversy placed before a special tribunal to be appointed by President Wilson and representing only the roads and the employees. The labor court of review set up by the Cummins-Esch bill gives the public one third representation on the court.

Labor men say they believe that if the Cummins-Esch bill is allowed to become law they will be delivered completely into the hands of the railroads. The road managers have been making threats, they charge to "settle with labor" when the roads are returned.

LADY NANCY'S FIRST SPEECH IS A SUCCESS

AMERICAN WOMAN IN BRITISH HOUSE OF COMMONS PLEADS FOR CONTINUATION OF DRY LAW

London.—Lady Nancy Astor today established herself firmly as an able member of the house of commons, in the opinion of the press. Newspapers hailed her maiden speech, made last night during debate on the liquor control measure, as a "marvelous parliamentary debut," a "parliamentary triumph" and a "great personal success."

The viscountess—first woman to sit as a member of the "faithful commons"—"charmed the house," one newspaper asserted. It was believed Lady Nancy "overcame a decided disadvantage" in that she followed and opposed an industrially able speaker, Sir John Rees, unionist member from East Nottingham.

Rees had urged removal of existing restrictions on the liquor traffic, imposed during the war. Arguing for the children of the country Lady Nancy, with only the slightest tinge of nervousness, asked if Sir John "wanted the welfare of the community or prosperity for the liquor trade, national efficiency or national inefficiency."

She was received with cheers.

WHISKEY 'REVOLT' COLLAPSES WHEN OFFICERS ARRIVE

PROHIBITION COMMISSIONER ADVISED TO DROP HIS WAR-LIKE METHODS IN INVESTIGATION

ARRANGE FOR CONFERENCE

Iron County Prosecuting Officer and Major Dalrymple Will Hold Conference With United States Officials

(By United Press Leased Wire)

Iron River, Mich.—Prosecutor M. S. McDonough today defied A. V. Dalrymple, federal prosecuting officer for the central states, to arrest him.

"I understand you are here to arrest me as a resident of this county," McDonough told Dalrymple. "You must use due process of the law."

"Don't lecture me," Dalrymple told McDonough.

"Lecture hell," said McDonough. "I am merely calling your bluff. Why don't you put the handcuffs on me?"

McDonough turned and started to walk away when a movie picture man said:

"Please wait, let me get you."

McDonough and Dalrymple stood while the movie was taken.

"You are more used to this than I, Major," said McDonough.

Dalrymple awaited a conference here with Assistant Prohibition Commissioner Gaylord. McDonough announced he had 100 armed men ready to arrest all of Dalrymple's party if they started anything. However, Dalrymple had made no move to start trouble and was ready to withdraw his men.

Iron River, Mich.—Michigan's "rum revolt" collapsed today.

"In place of a bloody war between prohibition officers and county officials over alleged interference in a prohibition inspector's seizure of evidence, there came a request for a conference between all concerned."

Acting on advice of his superiors in Washington, Major A. V. Dalrymple, prohibition commissioner for the central states, dropped his warlike prohibitions. Instead of arresting county Attorney M. S. McDonough, Dalrymple requested that official to accompany him to Grand Rapids, for a conference with District Attorney Myron H. Walker.

Dalrymple arrived here at midnight, accompanied by 12 of his men.

He was met by a detachment of the state constabulary. His announced purpose was to arrest McDonough, five deputy sheriffs and three brothers—the Stalcuicis. McDonough, it was charged, prevented Prohibition Inspector Leo J. Grove from retaining wine seized from the Stalcuicis. Federal warrants were to have charged conspiracy to defeat the prohibitory law.

A telegram from Dalrymple's chief today advised him to "proceed very carefully and not involve justice." It advised he follow the suggestion of Attorney General Palmer for a conference at Grand Rapids, where an attempt will be made at settlement before legal steps are taken.

Dalrymple's entire force consisted of 35 men. All were armed. Before arrival here Dalrymple passed out extra ammunition. He said reports reaching him at Marquette indicated there might be serious trouble.

McDonough, by messenger, notified Dalrymple he was ready for a conference at any time and a session was arranged. At that time Dalrymple expected to ask that the Stalcuicis be returned to the government and that the attorney accompany him to Grand Rapids immediately. McDonough said the wine he took from the inspector was safely held awaiting proper disposition. He insisted Grove had not shown him proper credentials when asked as to his authority for invading Iron River liquor caches.

One purpose of the "whiskey expedition" was achieved when Major Dalrymple received from County Attorney McDonough the key to Father Lenhardt's basement where the wine causing the trouble had been locked for safekeeping. Father Lenhardt's basement was the only one in the city having a key.

The wine was disposed of at once. With a clicking of movie cameras for its requiem, the barrels gurgled their lives away in Main street. Dalrymple was the executioner, knocking the heads of the barrels in with a lumber ax.

Dalrymple was notified that Assistant Prohibition Commissioner Gaylord, Washington, D. C., has been assigned to make a complete investigation of the Iron River episode.

The expedition made plans for a return home tonight.

The rebellion was over.

Peace Council Speeds Up Its Russian Probe

Agreement Reached at Meeting of Allied Premiers Yesterday is Generally Regarded as a Compromise

(By Ed. L. Keen)

London.—The council of premiers will lose no time in making a report on conditions in Russia. It was indicated today. The council, it was understood, has requested Albert Thomas, director of the international labor bureau of the league of nations to report on the Russian situation March 22. The report, it was said, will be forwarded through the league.

These developments followed official announcement yesterday of the council's decision to encourage trade with Russia and its endorsement of the proposal before the labor bureau, which is a branch of the league of nations to send a commission of investigation to Russia to "examine into the facts."

In many quarters here today it was forecast that the council's recommendation for political recognition will follow Thomas' report provided that report shows that the "bolshievisk horrors have come to an end."

The council generally considered the council's announcement as a compromise with Premier Lloyd George taking a middle course between the desire of Premier Nitti of Italy for much freer relations between the Allies and the soviet government and Premier Millerand's stand for commercial relations only, with absolutely no dealings with Lenin and Trotsky.

The compromise was viewed as a victory for the British premier but was expected to meet violent opposition from Millerand when the council convened yesterday. Some observers believed that Lloyd George was inclined to go even as far as Nitti wished, but temporized to prevent any bad feeling on the part of the French.

"Judged between its good and bad features, the good undoubtedly predominates," the Daily News declared, "in commenting on the council's announcement."

The Daily Herald saw the decision as a "long step toward peace" with soviet Russia. While the Daily Chronicle agreed that the Allies have entered the path which has "peace at its end."

The Times attacked Lloyd George declaring that while it was impossible "not to admit the profligate art with which he sought to throw weak and reluctant Europe into the vernal arms of his bolshevik seducer," one could not but foresee that "the next step would compromise her beyond recall."

Lloyd George's Victor.

Paris.—The press today generally was inclined to concede that Premier Lloyd George was victorious over Premier Millerand in the decision of the council of premiers as to the Allied attitude toward Russia.

The Journal published a dispatch from London saying that the British premier got around Millerand's position of refusal to have dealings with the Russian soviet government by deciding there shall be no official recognition of the soviets.

It was admitted that Lloyd George had succeeded in swinging the other members of the council to his view.

While the Allies were great directly with the soviet government relative to trade resumption with Russia, Le Journal said, the question of official recognition of Lenin and Trotsky will not be discussed in any conversations that may ensue.

The newspaper blamed Premier Nitti for siding with Lloyd George, pointing out that it gave Millerand double opposition.

London.—President Wilson's reply to the Allies communication in response to his recent Adriatic note was delivered to the council of premiers shortly after noon today.

The president's note, it was understood, deals exclusively with the Adriatic situation. The council immediately began discussion of the document, it was learned.

$1,000,000 FIRE IN EASTERN SHIPYARD

Yachts to Compete in International Races Narrowly Escape Damage in Flame This Morning

(By United Press Leased Wire)

New York.—Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV, which is to fly the British colors in the international yacht races next July and the Van Hook yacht club as the defender of America's cup, narrowly escaped damage early today in a fire which caused a damage of $1,000,000 in the Jacobs Brothers shipyard.

At one time the flames were with twenty five feet of the British yacht and the craft was imperilled by exploding casks of gasoline nearby. The Vanitie was farther distant.

Among five yachts and pleasure craft destroyed were the Iroliia and Aurora owned by Captain James L. Peterson. The Mystery, owned by James Farrell of the U. S. Steel Corporation and the Veona owned by Mrs. George Luther of Philadelphia.

ROAD PROGRAM IS BIGGEST PROBLEM BEFORE THE BOARD

SUPERVISORS SPEND MORE THAN HOUR DISCUSSING CONTENTION OF HIGHWAY WORK

DIVISION OF SENTIMENT

Opponents of Recent Bond Issue Are Severely Criticized But Board Is Advised to Proceed With Caution

At the opening session of the county board at the courthouse Tuesday afternoon, Douglas Hodgins, chairman, reappointed the former advisory committee on good roads consisting of G. D. Thomas, Charles Siebert, Irving Werner, Silas Kueber and A. Panderson to confer with the county state road and bridge committee consisting of P. W. Silverwood, John Dirr, C. G. Ballhorn, D. J. Ryan and Charles Schultz, as to the best course to pursue regarding road work the coming season. The latter committee will meet at the county highway commissioner's office at two o'clock this afternoon to dispose of several pending matters and will hold a joint meeting with the advisory committee an hour later.

The appointment of the committee followed a lively discussion on the road proposition that lasted nearly an hour. At first it looked as if there was very little prospect of an appropriation being made owing to the different attitude taken by the first two speakers, P. W. Silverwood, chairman, and D. J. Ryan, a member of the county state road and bridge committee, but as the discussion progressed things began to brighten to such an extent that it is almost certain that provision will be made for completing the unfinished work at least.

The discussion was opened by P. W. Silverwood, who reviewed the work done by the county state road and bridge committee and the effort it made to be fair with all parts of the county. Instead of doing the work in the manner planned he said that the committee was influenced by delegations of prominent citizens to close up gaps in certain highways on which improvements had been made upon the assurance that the taxpayers would see them through to the finish, and that the committee even went so far as to transfer funds appropriated for the improvement of certain highways to the roads which it completed.

Mr. Silverwood said that human nature is the same the world over and that as soon as these gaps were completed, making a continuous pavement, the taxpayers refused to assist.

DRY LAW BLESSING IN DISGUISE, BREWER AVERS

Enforcement of Prohibition Law Teaching Americans to be on Their Guard, Brewers Are Told

(By United Press Leased Wire)

Atlantic City, N. J.—Describing the present "short period of prohibition" as a blessing in disguise, Christian W. Feigenspan, president of the National States Brewers Association today launched a bitter attack against the method of procedure in the passage of the eighteen amendment. This speech opened the first conference of the National Brewers' Organization since October 1917.

Circumstances which are arising every day as a result of the dry act are arousing the American people to be on their guard for the protection of their liberties. Feigenspan told the brewers. He termed the enactment of the prohibition law a "pollution of principle and common justice, an act of dishonesty and tyranny, and the destruction of individual rights."

"We must use every legal and constitutional means to keep our liberty," Feigenspan said. "We need offer no excuses for our efforts to protect our rights and that property which is guaranteed us by the constitution."

140,000 TEACHERS QUIT JOBS DURING PAST YEAR

(By United Press Leased Wire)

Cleveland.—Figures presented at the National Education Association convention here today showed that 140,000 teachers quit the schools during the past year. The compilation was made by 1,752 public school superintendents in 45 states. Hugh S. Magill, field secretary for the association and former state senator in Illinois, warned against continuance of the exodus which he blamed on inadequate pay.

"Salaries before the war were low," he said. "The same money now has only one-half of its purchasing value. And as the teachers' salaries have not kept pace with the cost of living, they have been driven from the classroom by the tens of thousands."

MANAGERIAL SYSTEM IS VOTED DOWN BY AN IMMENSE MAJORITY

ASQUITH REGAINS HIS SEAT IN THE BRITISH COMMONS

FORMER PREMIER'S VICTORY IN ELECTION MAY START HIM BACK TO OLD POSITION

(By United Press Leased Wire)

London.—Herbert Asquith, former premier, has been elected to the house of commons from the Paisley district. It was officially announced today.

The election was held Feb. 12, but, according to the British custom, the result was not announced until today.

The election followed with great interest throughout Great Britain. Political observers saw in the candidacy of the former premier an attempt to "come back" and regain his powerful position in British affairs.

The liberal victory, which again puts Asquith back in his old position as liberal leader in the house of commons, was considered by observers as of the utmost importance. It again places him in line for the premiership, they pointed out.

Lady Bonham-Carter, daughter of the silver-haired old statesman, was given much credit for his election. Women claimed she conducted his campaign throughout. They called for the "link between Paisley and Piccadilly." She took an active part in the campaign, her discourses ranging from neck ties to votes.

At one meeting a group of laborite hecklers gathered in a corner of the hall and started a commotion. Lady Carter silenced them with this remark:

"Don't you think all this rather ridiculous? Mr. MacKean (the laborite candidate) lately attacked my father for wearing a green tie, finding it in sympathy with the Sinn Fein. Mr. MacKean's stock in trade must be getting threadbare."

"Just look at my father's tie tonight. Why, if this election is to be won on ties, I say frankly we're beaten."

Roars of laughter with cries of "no you're not," greeted this remark.

NEW JERSEY ENDORSES 3.5 PER CENT BEER

Bill is Passed After Tumultuous Scenes in the New Jersey Legislature—Try to Upset Dry Amendment

(By United Press Leased Wire)

Trenton, N. J.—Amid scenes of tumult and confusion recognition by members after two hours debate, the New Jersey house late on Tuesday passed a compromise "wet" bill, fixing 3.5 per cent alcohol by volume, which is declared to be slightly stronger than the 2.75 beer of wartime prohibition, as the legal limit for beverages in New Jersey.

The bill was agreed to by wet democrats and wet republicans, and had the sanction of Gov. Edwards.

It was presented to the house as a committee substitute for the Barrett 4 per cent bill, the democratic measure, and was passed, 37 to 21.

Passage of the bill was prompted by the desire of Atty. General McCann to have the measure on the New Jersey statute books in order to fortify him in his proposed action before the United States Supreme Court on Monday to upset the prohibition amendment and the Volstead act, which proceedings he has been directed to institute by Gov. Edwards, who was elected on a distinctly wet issue.

CITY GIVES FIVE TO ONE MAJORITY TO PRESENT ALDERMANIC FORM OF GOVERNMENT

VERY LIGHT VOTE CAST

Less Than Half the City's Voting Strength Takes Part in Election—Old Form Leads by More Than 1200 Votes

Appleton yesterday decided against a change in its form of government by voting against recall of the present aldermanic form and establishing a city manager system in its place by a plurality of 1,208 votes. Only 323 votes were cast in favor of the change while 1,531 men voted to retain the present form. The total of 1,854 votes was only about half of the city's voting strength.

The city manager system received its greatest support in the First ward where 113 votes were cast in favor of a change and 242 against. In the Fifth ward only 25 voters wanted the manager system while 323 believed that the present form is the better of the two.

The vote by wards follows:

	For	Against
First	113	242
Second	75	161
Third	42	327
Fourth	26	216
Fifth	25	314
Sixth	42	271
Totals	323	1,531

Because of the extremely light vote, the ballots were counted quickly and the election result was known before 8:30 o'clock last evening. The Second ward had completed its count ten minutes after the polls closed.

There was practically no interest in the election. This morning only a few telephone calls inquiring the result were received at the office of the Post-Crescent. Usually hundreds of inquiries are answered the morning after an election.

It is believed that hundreds of men refused to vote because neither form at issue appealed to them. It was said this morning that a majority of commission form advocates remained away from the polls.

Agitation for a change started about three months ago and soon thereafter petitions for a recall of the aldermanic form and establishment of the manager system were placed in circulation. The petitions were liberally signed and it was believed victory for the new form would be an easy matter. The heaviest opposition was encountered in the wards where most of water earners.

Attorneys say that yesterday's election would not have a bearing on any campaign in the future to restore the commission government. It is said that one of the results of yesterday's election was to show a considerable sentiment for the form and that it is not an improbability that agitation for a restoration of commission government will be renewed here.

ASK RUMANIANS TO GO EASY WITH PRISONERS

(By United Press Leased Wire)

Paris.—The council of ambassadors this afternoon decided to recommend to their respective governments that they ask Rumania to show clemency toward Hungarians held prisoners in that country.

The council's decision followed a strong plea by the Hungarian delegation. Members of the delegation said a large number of their countrymen were held in Rumania and had been sentenced to death.

The ambassadors also decided that the various plebiscite commissions shall have full authority to complete all plebiscites provided in the peace treaty and shall announce the results.

In China there are no policemen except in the cities controlled by foreigners and in the foreign compounds of the Chinese cities.

COUNTY NOTIFIED OF INJURY CAUSED BY ITS MOTOR TRUCK

J. R. MILLER ASSERTS HE WAS HURT IN ACCIDENT—PASSES
RESOLUTION OF CON-FIDENCE

The session of the county board at the court house Tuesday afternoon was comparatively lengthy for a starter. A communication from J. R. Miller was read in which he notified the county of having been injured a mile north of the city on the Mackinac road, on Nov. 20, 1918, by being struck by a motor truck belonging to the county highway commission. His horse was also injured and his buggy badly damaged. The communication was referred to the district attorney and the county, state road and bridge committee.

C. B. Ballard inquired of the chairman if a report had ever been made of the two appropriations, one for $2,000 and the other for $1,000, which the board contributed to the Council of Defense during the war. He was informed that the first appropriation was covered in a report already made to the county and that a report of the other appropriation

CHICAGO FAIR PRICE COM-MISSION ASSURES LIVING COST IS BOUND TO FALL
SOON

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—Blame supply and demand if you like but the country is due for price declines—any way that's the opinion of Major A. A. Sprague, Chicago fair price commissioner.

Another five or six months will be needed to drive the high price bugaboo to the toboggan edge and then the landslide will come, Sprague believed today.

Lower prices are conditional upon supply and demand and seasons, according to Sprague. The effect of seasons is found in the recent drop of 21 cents a pound for best butter and decline of ten cents a dozen in fresh egg prices, the fair price commissioner says.

When fresh vegetables hit the market canned food prices will crash downward.

Meat prices now are wavering.

ROAD PROGRAM IS GREATEST PROBLEM BEFORE THE BOARD

The towns that had befriended them by voting down the proposed bond issue at the special election last December. He called attention to two miles of road south of Seymour that had been graded in anticipation of being paved this spring that will be impassable as soon as the frost commences to come out of the ground. D. J. Ryan, also a member of the county, state road and bridge committee, was even more severe than Mr. Silverwood in his denunciation of the attitude taken at the polls by that part of the county which the committee had served at the expense of other towns which are still waiting for their highways to be improved. He said he overheard a conversation between two Hortonville taxpayers in a certain store in Appleton immediately after the special election at which the bond issue was defeated and after exchanging greetings one asked the other how he voted. The man replied that he voted against the bond issue for the reason that his part of the county was well provided for. "I felt like having three rounds with him for taking such a attitude," said Mr. Ryan.

John Tracy, a former member of the county, state road and bridge committee, advised the members of the board to go slow in the construction of roads while material and labor were so high. He said that in conversation with a contractor he learned that under present conditions concrete pavement would cost in the neighborhood of $40,000 per mile and he deemed it advisable to delay road work until prices were more favorable. C. B. Ballard endorsed Mr. Tracy's views and endeavored to discourage the county from doing any road work. He said that taxes were high and that they were going still higher. The state tax this year, he said, amounted to $50,000,000.

Anthony McCleone, assessor, from the second district, whose part of the county has received little if any benefit from the appropriations so far made by the county for good roads, was strongly in favor of the work being carried forward the coming season as the people of his town were still knee deep in mud notwithstanding the expense of the badging good roads in other parts of the county. He said that the taxpayers of the north-eastern towns were entitled to some recognition on the part of those now enjoying the benefits of improved roads.

John Diederich of Appleton, a newly elected member of the county, state road and bridge committee, took the same view. He said that the people in Mr. McCleone's part of the county had a right to insist on their highways being improved and was strongly in favor of the work being carried out as originally planned. He was satisfied that if the question of a bond issue was put to the people again that it would be carried by a good majority as many of those who voted against it at the special election now recognize their mistake. He did not look for any decline in wages or in the price of material.

G. D. Thomas said that he was and still is in favor of good roads, and that in taking that stand at previous sessions he supposed he was representing the sentiment of his constituents. He said, however, that at the special election his ward voted against the bond issue and that he felt in duty bound as its representative to oppose any road appropriation. P. W. Silverwood took a different attitude. He said when he was elected that he took it for granted that his constituents wanted him to use his best judgment in all matters pertaining to their interest and that he was endeavoring to do this. Instead of coming down to the level of the opinion that wages and the price of material would continue to advance.

Otto Rohm of the town of Black Creek, president of the Outagamie union of the American Society of Equity, said that he called a meeting of his constituents last Saturday and that while they had received all the benefits of improved roads they could expect they were heartily in favor of him to vote. John Kessler, who represents the village of Black Creek, said that he also called a similar meeting and was instructed to support any appropriation that might be asked. Douglas Hodgins, chairman, stated that he was in favor of good roads and had always worked for them. He said he was unable to explain why his home village, Hortonville, voted so strongly against the bond issue and his first thought was to resign. He was praised to hear his village criticized. However, on account of present conditions he thought it best for the board to proceed cautiously.

The sentiment was quite general on the part of the speakers that if the bond issue was again put to a vote of the people that it would carry by a large majority. Several advocated the holding of another special election either this spring or next fall. It was generally conceded that a mistake was made.

made calling the last special election just before taxpaying time when there was such a cry about high taxes. It was brought out that taxes in the county were very little if any higher than previous years outside of the city of Appleton. The amount of the appropriation to be asked for by the county, state road and bridge committee to carry on the unfinished work the coming season is slightly over $200,000.

One Armenian orphan was adopted by the Appleton Court No. 132, Catholic Order of Foresters, at the meeting held last evening in Forester hall, and the treasurer authorized a $600 to be used for the first relief committee for its support.

Reports from the Fox River valley meeting held at Green Bay Sunday were given by J. B. Langenberg, chief ranger, and others who attended. Arrangements were made by the local order to launch a membership campaign at once in the counties which were planned at Green Bay. The Appleton lodge now has the largest membership of any of the 1,800 courts in the order, and it is the intention to keep up that record. The sky is the limit in the membership campaign, the officers say.

WETTENGEL ENTERS RACE FOR ELECTION AS G. O. P. DELEGATE

APPLETON MAN SEEKS EN-DORSEMENT OF GENERAL
WOOD AT REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

Fred F. Wettengel yesterday afternoon announced his candidacy for election as a delegate to the republican national convention in Chicago next June, pledged to work for the interests of Major General Leonard Wood. The election will be held the first Tuesday in April. Mr. Wettengel has long been an ardent Wood supporter and he believes that his candidacy will receive a large endorsement.

George A. West, chairman of the republican state committee, has announced that there will be no effort made to elect instructed delegates to the national confab. All efforts of the organization are to be directed to elect men not pledged to vote for any particular candidate.

With the entrance of Mr. Wettengel in the field, Appleton is represented by four men in the race for election as delegates to conventions. Judson G. Rosebush has the endorsement of the state central committee as an instructed delegate from the Ninth congressional district; C. B. Ballard has been announced as a La Follette candidate and George Baldwin was selected as a candidate for election to the democratic national meeting in San Francisco.

Information from Green Bay this morning was to the effect that John P. Kiernan, retired lumberman of Green Bay, and Max Sells, Florence, are also candidates for republican nomination as delegates to the republican convention. They seek to represent the Ninth district. The district includes Brown, Door, Marinette, Outagamie, Oconto, Kewaunee, Shawano, Waushara, and Winnebago.

ADD NEW LABORATORY EQUIPMENT TO COLLEGE

A complete and well equipped bacteriological laboratory is being installed on third floor of Science hall of Lawrence college and will be a valuable addition to the Botany department. The entire apparatus and equipment has not yet arrived, but classes have been conducted in the laboratory since the opening of the second semester.

Nine students are registered in the course, but it is expected that with such facilities open the course will soon increase in extent. Hitherto only a few students took the subject, which was taught by the city bacteriologist, Prof. Rogers is in charge of the course this semester.

To the Electors of the Ninth Congressional District:

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for delegate from the Ninth Congressional District of Wisconsin to the National Convention of the Republican Party to be voted for at the election to be held on the first Tuesday in April, 1920, and I further declare that I will support Gen. Leonard Wood as the Presidential Nominee for the Republican Party.

If elected as delegate, I will endeavor to do everything within my power to make Gen. Wood the Presidential Nominee of the Republican Party and will not waver in my support unless circumstances prevent the nomination of Gen. Wood, when I reserve the privilege of supporting the next best candidate.

Respectfully,
FRED FELIX WETTENGEL.

would probably be filed during the present session.

John Tracy called attention to the custom of members drawing full per diem and mileage when excused from meetings and stated that the committee was uncertain about what course to pursue when making its report. He said that the custom had been followed ever since the board was organized and that he had no intention of making a motion favoring its discontinuance. The district attorney was instructed to look up the law for the purpose of seeing if it was being violated.

The following resolution signed by G. D. Thomas and O. F. Rohm was adopted:

"Whereas, our member, D. J. Ryan, has since our last meeting lost his life, long companion, helpmate and wife, and

"Whereas, we appreciate his loss and sympathize with him in his bereavement and desire to express to him at this time our condolence with him in this time of sorrow, wherefore, be it,

"Resolved, That the board of Outagamie county in session assembled do hereby tender our member, D. J. Ryan, our heartfelt sympathy and condolence in this his most severe affliction."

Retailers, charged with profiteering by Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer found a defender in Sprague. He said retailers generally were aiding to lower prices and are "cooperating to the fullest extent."

No Drop for Two Years.
New York.—It will be at least two years before any real reduction in food prices can become effective, according to Edward Cumpson of Buffalo, president of the New York Wholesale Grocers' association, which opened its thirty-second annual convention here today.

The two day convention which opened today, he said, will devote most of its time to planning better distribution methods as one possible means of reducing prices.

FATHER OF MANAGER OF APPLETON THEATRE ILL

Joseph Winninger, manager of Appleton theatre, left last evening for Sauau to visit his father, Franz Winninger, who is critically ill following a second stroke of paralysis. Information from Wausau this morning indicated his condition is unchanged and little hope is held out for his recovery.

Mr. Winninger is 74 years old. He is the father of a large family of theatrical men. The local man is the only one not engaged on the stage. His other sons are Charles, Frank, John and John.

A large attendance was present at last night's meeting at which Dr. Helms spoke on "God Needs Our Help in Rebuilding the World."

Dr. Helms has a strong personality and charm and the students are realizing the bigness of the man who is conducting their meetings. Many are taking advantage of the opportunity of having personal conferences with him.

The subject for tonight's meeting which will be at 7:30 o'clock at the Lawrence Memorial chapel is "God's Requirements in Rebuilding the World."

FARMING IN OUTAGAMIE COUNTY.

Federal statistics show that the year 1919 will represent the maximum of rural prosperity throughout the country, not only in the worth of farm assets but in the value of products. They show that the farmer has made tremendous progress in the development of wealth and profits. Never in our history has farming been on so stable and favorable a basis. With this prosperity has come marked advancement in the conditions of rural life, not the least of which is the rapid expansion of permanently improved roads.

Probably no class occupies so favorable a position economically as does the American farmer. His fruits from the demands and conditions of war were large. The status of none has been improved more than his by the wealth creating forces of that upheaval. And what is further to his advantage, he has put most of these returns back into the resources of his industry, whereas millions of others benefited through larger incomes and wages have spent much of their earnings in extravagant living. Many of us are inclined to envy the farmer his prosperity and independence, but it is well to bear in mind the fact that it is good for all of us that this is so. No matter how much credit we may give to manufacture, to transportation, or to any of the other factors which have contributed to American greatness, the truth is the farmer is the basic rock of our strength and well-being as a nation. He is the foundation of all prosperity in this country, the foundation of contentment and of life itself in every field of endeavor. He is at the bottom of things, so to speak, that have made America sturdy, invigorating and inviting.

Moreover, the farmer is the most stable and reliable element we have for the preservation of the country's institutions and the security of our economic system. Radicalism makes scant progress beyond the city limits. There we find the typical product of American independence, freedom and opportunity and, may we say, their chief beneficiary.

We should not envy the farmer his prosperity or the influence he commands. He is entitled to the full fruits of his labor, and in many respects they have had tardy recognition. It has not been so long ago when mortgage foreclosures were a sad incident of agriculture in too many states and too many localities. After years of sacrifice, persistence and application the farmer is coming into his own. We should all congratulate him, and especially that portion of him which has the good fortune to reside in Outagamie county, state of Wisconsin.

PUT THE BRAKES ON.

The federal reserve board is performing an invaluable public service in employing the full powers of the reserve banking system to regulate finances and to control the credit situation. Were it not for the federal reserve system the United States long ago would have been in the same chaotic condition as Europe. We would have engaged in war in the midst of panic.

The federal reserve board has stood between us and a demoralized condition in credit and industry. It is the one agency we have for the restoration of commerce and business to a pre-war equilibrium smoothly and without convulsion. But the federal reserve system is not proof against every possibility. It cannot bring about orderly deflation if credit is unduly expanded and particularly for purposes of speculation.

Therefore its determination to put the bridle on speculation and to keep it there until return to a sound basis is an accomplished fact will have the approval of all healthy enterprise and of the public generally.

We do not have to close up the stock exchange, but we will have to put it behind the bars for a time and on bread and water. Whatever steps the federal reserve board takes should have the hearty cooperation of the country if there is to be any hope of avoiding the crash of precipitate deflation.

SENATOR LENROOT'S VOTE.

We agree with the view expressed by Senator Lenroot in casting his vote for the Esch-Cummins railroad bill. He exhibited the courage of his convictions in supporting what he believed would be the best solution of the railway problem. It is possible to secure at this time. Mr. Lenroot did not in any sense vote in defiance of labor's opposition to the bill, he simply did not let that opposition prevent his doing what he believed to be the right thing under the circumstances. These circumstances involved the definite decision of the president to return the railroads to their owners on March 1st with or without legislation by congress. We had reached a point in the unsatisfactory experience of federal control which made a continuance of that policy inconsistent and perilous. We believe with Senator Lenroot that "if the roads were held by the government for another two years we would have a much more difficult situation to unscramble." We imagine that President Wilson coincides with this opinion. It is the consensus of financial and expert judgment that return of the roads to private operation without protective legislation would have bankrupted most of the properties and demoralized transportation.

Many theories are entertained as to the ultimate disposition of the railroads. Mr. Bryan wants dual ownership divided between the nation and the states. Organized labor has put forward the Plumb plan which contemplates a division of proprietorship and earnings between the managers, the employees and the public. Others are in favor of private ownership and operation with varying degrees of government regulation. Advocates of each of these solutions are sincere and all may be credited with a desire to have the national interests served. Again we coincide with the opinion of Senator Lenroot that in the end we shall have to choose between out-and-out government ownership and operation and federal incorporation under private ownership but with public control.

So far as the measure which now awaits the president's signature is concerned it is not to be regarded as embodying a permanent national policy. It is essentially an emergency act designed to facilitate return of the railroads from government to private operation with minimum disturbance of transportation and maximum protection to the public, a step to which the government morally obligated itself at the time it took over the roads. The financial provisions of the act cover a period of only two years and we believe they are wholly necessary to the stability of the railways, although they may prove to be inadequate for their improvement. In respect to the labor provision it is quite true, as Senator Cummins says, that they leave "all men free, whether employees or employers, to do whatsoever they please at any time and under any circumstances." Compulsory arbitration is not attempted in a legal sense. We do not see how labor can possibly suffer under the methods created for the adjustment of differences and the fixing of wages.

No one believes that this bill represents anything like a perfect solution of the rail problem. Doubtless many imperfections will be found in it viewed as purely a temporary measure. But perhaps if we take into consideration the wide diversion of opinion in congress and throughout the country with respect to the railways it represents the best that could be expected under the conditions.

Today's Poem

EDMUND VANCE COOKE

ROSEBUDS IN THE WHEAT

I heard God from his Judgment seat
Speak unto Death. "It is not meet;
Rosebuds are in the ripened wheat."

"Canst thou not count thy sickle's gain
And cut the ripened, golden grain,
Letting the rosebuds still remain?"

"Surely it showeth wanton power
To scarify the morning flower
Ere it hath bloomed its little hour."

"And all the earth is filled with grief
And men deny me their relief;
Rosebuds are in the garnered wheat."

Then answered Death. "Oh, I am old;
My eyes are dim, my blood is cold;
The sickle wavers in my hold."

"Is in my fault the rosebuds grow
Hard by the wheat field's outer row,
Or that my hand is palsied so?"

"Give Love my sickle. Let him serve;
No tender stroke of his will serve
And they shall die who shall deserve."

"Nay, none!" cried Love, for I would spare
The milk breath and the silver hair
And all between, though foul or fair."

Then whispered God beneath his breath,
"The sickle must remain with Death,
Even though at whiles he blundereth."

"For who would know that life were sweet,
If life should never know defeat,
Aye, even with rosebuds in the wheat!"

Confessions of a Bride

(Copyright, 1920, by The Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

It is Usually a Flatterer Who Will Deceive a Woman

There are men whom a woman trusts instinctively. Bob was such a man—Spence another—and Dr. Travers another. I had known Travers but two days, nevertheless I trusted him absolutely.

Women very often place confidence in unworthy men. I thought as we cut through the flat sea in the low motor-boat. And I wondered if all of the girls who claim that they have been deceived are actually as honest as they pretend to be.

It is usually a flatterer who deceives women. The honest man, whom a girl can really trust seldom has a lot to say about himself or his genuineness. Certainly he never urges a girl toward an unconventional goal. Just as soon as a man waves temptation before a girl, he proves himself unworthy, no matter how he may protest his devotion. Any girl who is not a fool knows this. That is why I believe that the deceived girl isn't always innocent and deserving of sympathy. It isn't at all hard for a girl to classify rascals, either. They advertise themselves so extensively and so constantly. Any girl of average common sense ought to recognize them by their vanity. And ought to avoid them accordingly.

Dr. Travers was almost too patient with my freak trip along that Mexican coast at midnight, and I had about decided that I would have to admit I was wrong. The request to turn back to the "lone" was on the tip of my tongue, when a voice from a dark recess of a cove came faintly across the water:

"Ship ahoy!"

It was a call we had been straining our ears to hear but it startled me stiff when I heard it. Travers slowed down his engine. I picked up the red lantern and waved it, then the white, then the blue.

"Columbia forever!" cried Travers. "Cheers for the red, white and blue!" came the voice from the shore.

"I suppose there isn't anything in mental telepathy," I said despairingly. "Bob couldn't have sent me a message. That's not his voice. But I'm sure that Jordan Spence is calling."

"I suppose we'd better pick the man up, now we're here," said Travers quizzically. I sprang from the boat as it grated on the sand, shook hands excitedly with Spence and hugged Chrys to my heart before I thought about introducing Travers. In fact, we passed up the formalities altogether. I couldn't wait to put my one big anxiety into words:

"Where's Bob?"

"At the hacienda," said Chrystobel. "We—

we left him there!"

The sound of her voice—the voice of the dumb—made me overlook the easiness of her reply.

"You can speak, Chrys? At last you can talk again? Tell me about Bob. Tell me how your voice came back!" I demanded.

"Mrs. Lorimer, I think we would better make for the 'lone' at once," said Travers. "If it should sail at dawn, according to schedule."

"But—Bob?" I insisted.

"At the hacienda," Chrys replied again, and I thought she sent an appealing look toward Jordan Spence. "Tell me how you happened to come along this shore at this hour, Jane?"

"How you managed to get from the hacienda to the shore. And tell me about my husband," I said once more.

Then spoke Jordan Spence as one having authority:

"No recitals at this time, if you please. Miss Lorimer is unfit either to talk or to listen."

"We'll have to race for the 'lone,'" said Travers.

(To Be Continued)

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM

To the Editor of The Post-Crescent:—The election is over. The good citizens who appreciate their right of suffrage have spoken, and by an overwhelming vote of 5 to 1 have decreed that Appleton remain for the present under the aldermanic form instead of the managerial form of city government.

The fact that only 1550 voters took enough interest in the question to register their vote, clearly demonstrates beyond the question of a doubt that there is a great lack of community interest.

Now is the opportune time to bury the hatchet. Let all the good citizens get together and take a brotherly interest in one another. Let capital and labor join hands in a bond of good fellowship. What we need in Appleton is more of the spirit of co-operation with the Golden Rule as our everyday guide.

The spring election is upon us and those citizens who found fault with the present form of city government and who have an opportunity of becoming candidates for aldermen and supervisors. If they are elected, they will have an opportunity of serving their city in a manner equally as well as if they were under the managerial form.

The trouble with Appleton does not lie in the particular form of city government under which we are functioning, but rather in the indifferent attitude that the citizens generally take in matters pertaining to the welfare of our beautiful city. Nature was most kind to us and has given us an environment second to none throughout the country. But instead of showing our appreciation for our wonderful Fox River which courses through our corporate limits with its bounteous water power, we have failed in our duty to ourselves and our fellow citizens and have lost forever the possession of a winding river road and our ravines are gradually becoming filled with rubbish, instead of being beautified and made into sunken gardens.

We need to wake up. Let us stop theorizing and put our shoulders to the wheel. Instead of criticizing the other fellow let us show our appreciation for the good he is doing and if we will take the time, maybe we can get together on a common ground and talk things over in the interest and future development of our city. Honest criticism should always be encouraged but snap judgments should not be tolerated. When we all realize that the best results can be obtained by working for the common good, Appleton will soon rise from among her sister cities as a bright beacon light and hold her own as a progressive city. Fred Felix Wettengel, Appleton, Wis., Feb. 25.

"Hello! Is this Mr. Jigson?"

"Yes."

"This is Smith. Can I borrow your auto for this afternoon?"

"Why, no. I shouldn't think you'd have the face to ask for it."

"I haven't. That's why I'm asking over the phone."

"What's your private opinion of old Skrimper?"

"He's a dough nut."

"Freely translated, that would mean—"

"Money mad."

It was a rattleback little branch railway, but it was the best they had in the neighborhood, and they had to put up with it.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Wednesday, February 27, 1895.

F. W. Harriman was a Fond du Lac visitor.

Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Wescott had removed from Marquette and had secured a suite of rooms in the William DeWitt residence in the First ward.

The Appleton Light Infantry decided to remain in the old armory, which it leased from A. L. Smith and which it was occupying at the time. An addition was to be built to the rear.

Paper manufacturers were quite unanimous in the opinion that business was not as good as they would like to see it.

A cablegram announced the safe arrival at Gibraltar of a Neenah party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Shattuck and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Van Ostrand, and the Misses Laura Van Ostrand and Emma Kimbrough.

Health Talks

by WILLIAM BRADY M.D.

NOTED PHYSICIAN AND AUTHOR

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

The High Cost of Sickness.—VIII. Extravagant Mouth Toilet.

The most competent dental authorities assure us that there is no need of using any chemical or medicinal antiseptic in the care of the teeth, and some of them declare that the habitual use of antiseptics is injurious because the antiseptics tend to destroy the delicate lining membranes of the mouth and thus open the way for infection with germs.

We must bear in mind one fundamental fact which is too often ignored or forgotten, even by physicians, namely, that germs in the mouth do us no harm. It is only when germs invade the structure of the tissues of the mouth, that they are capable of doing us any harm. Therefore it does not necessarily profit anything to discourage germs by means of antiseptics in the cavity of the mouth. And unless there is some special purpose to be met, and some special remedy prescribed by doctor or dentist to meet that purpose, it is quite extravagant, to say the least, to make habitual or constant use of antiseptic preparations for cleaning the teeth.

I value my teeth highly. I would spend a lot of time and endure much discomfort and pay out considerable money—which, for me, is saying the hardest thing last—before I would sacrifice one of my teeth. For my part, however, plain soap, the same soap I use to wash my hands and to shave with, is the most satisfactory dentifrice. Tooth powders and tooth pastes are largely soap anyway.

When you decide to call a doctor to attend some one in your family you naturally want a good doctor, and not the cheapest doctor you can find. How about the care of your teeth? Do you go in for the bargain dentists? Do you feel that your teeth are not worth the price of good dentistry? Do you imagine that you save anything by skipping on this important matter?

Nearly every town nowadays has good dentists and dental "parlors," institutions conducted without that wholly personal character which is indispensable in safe dentistry or in safe medicine. Sensible people do not employ a doctor whose sole recommendation is what he tells you about himself, nor do they place confidence in a doctor who does not practice under his own name. Why should this wise precaution not obtain in the selection of dentists? How little the bargain hunting patron realizes that the dental work, which seems so cheap right now, is the kind of work which stores up untold trouble for the future and is responsible for all sorts of systemic ills in later years.

Good dentistry is not the cheapest dentistry, but it costs the least in the long run. Only people whose health is of no importance—if there are such people—can afford to indulge in bargain dentistry.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Poor Circulation.

What treatment or diet is good for persons who have poor circulation? I think my blood runs so thin, so to speak. I always have cold hands and feet. (W. S.)

ANSWER—Usually oxygen is good—two miles two or three times a day on the roof. Exercise increases absorption and utilization of oxygen in the body. That means you up. Setting-up exercises should be regularly taken by every one whose occupation is sedentary. If you don't know how, send for instructions. Another help for cold hands and feet, "poor circulation," is somewhat, try a dozen every morning on up stairs or out in the yard. Or roll a dozen, then roll them back. This puts back into circulation the stagnant blood which, in persons physically uneducated, stagnates in the vessels of the splanchnic region—that is the region under your belt. Stagnant or weak posture predisposes to poor circulation and poor health. Setting-up exercises improve posture. Good posture makes good health. Just as a grin helps you to be more cheerful.

Aortitis.

1. What is meant by the term "aortitis" and what is the cause of it?

2. Would it cause one to have pains in the abdomen and in the back between the shoulder blades and around the heart?

3. Can it be cured, or at least relieved, so far as the pain is concerned? (J. H. M.)

ANSWER—Aortitis means inflammation of the aorta (the great artery), commonly caused by an infection such as syphilis. It is one of many conditions which might cause such pain as you describe, but it may cause no pain. Usually it is relieved by treatment.

Trained Nurse Raises Issue.

I am a graduate nurse, and in the hospital I was taught the value and importance of simple, easily cleanable surfaces in the fight against disease. Therefore I do not understand your allusion to "that hideous affliction, the hard wood floor in lieu of carpets."

"Did you ever sweep or beat a carpet or even try to clean it with a vacuum cleaner?" The dirt shows on a bare floor and does not show in a carpet or rug. (H. R.)

ANSWER—It is not visible dirt, but invisible dirt, that is dangerous. Theoretically the bare floor, or floor bare in spots and covered with rug in other spots, may be "sanitary." Practically, carpets are as clean as hard wood floors, and they seldom break your hip.

This use of radium in the great convalescent hospital has opened a field for radium which had only partially been explored before the war and radium will now be used to follow many of the major operations where there would otherwise be some difficulty in having the wounds heal without adhesion, stiff joints and large collections of scar tissue.

It will be used largely to aid in the recovery of patients who have had physical injuries on which, in many cases the same general surgery must be used as in the treatment of war wounds.

One more article on radium will follow before the ten making up the total will have been completed. In the mean time it will be possible for anyone desiring more information relative to radium and radium treatment to secure it by addressing The Radium Educational Bureau, Post Office Box 506, Green Bay, Wis., adv.

In describing his actual work with radium, this authority stated that it had relieved adhesions in joints and around tendons, freed scar tissue, relieved nerve block where nerves had refused to function properly following recovery from wounds and removed the extreme tenderness so often affecting wounds where nerve ends were affected.

Following recovery some of these old scars were of such a nature that they interfered with the free movement of the parts and also showed extreme tenderness. In many cases muscles were bound through the rigidity of these scars causing stiff joints.

Some of the principal work in this line was carried out by Walter C. Stevenson, M. D., a captain in the R. A. M. C. He carried out his work in a convalescent hospital in Dublin and it makes the following statement:

"Up to September 1918, I have systematically treated about 300 military patients by the surface application of radium emanation and it has been very exceptional not to produce some improvement, occasionally very marked improvement, in cases which have been unaffected by other methods."

In describing his actual work with radium, this authority stated that it

Former Residents of County Large Given Membership Privileges—Change Health Week Program

Any woman over eighteen years of age, formerly a resident of this county but at present residing outside, may become an honorary member of the Appleton Woman's club by making application to the secretary and paying the dues. This was made possible last night when the resolution adopting this amendment to the constitution was unanimously voted at the business session of the club.

Several changes in the program of the Health Week being conducted by the club have been made because of Dr. Brumbaugh's unexpected delay in arriving here. Dr. Brumbaugh was scheduled to talk at several schools yesterday afternoon, but as he did not arrive until last evening he was unable to do so. He talked this morning at 8:30 o'clock at the First Ward school and later in the morning at the meeting of the County board and at the Actual Business college.

RYAN IN ARMS WHEN FARM AGENT COMES BEFORE THE BOARD

BUCHANAN SUPERVISOR PEEVED WHEN PROPOSITION KILLED LAST FALL APPEARS BY MISTAKE

In some unexplainable manner the resolution relating to the appointment of a county agricultural agent which was defeated by one vote at the November meeting of the county board got back on the clerk's desk this morning and started a rumpus the moment it came up. The clerk was of the impression that it was laid over from the previous session and had scarcely started reading it when D. J. Ryan sprang to his feet and informed him and the members that it met its death blow at the November session and hence could not be taken up again. The defeat of the resolution was due to Mr. Ryan's efforts at the former session and he was ready to again take up the fight if necessary. Several members clamored for the floor, but as a motion was made to adjourn they were not given an opportunity to be heard.

Very little business was transacted this morning. The report of Riley, Everett and Penner, who have just completed auditing the books of the different county officials was read, and Judge John Bottensek addressed the members on certain matters relative to the mothers' pension law. Some little time was spent in discussing a resolution of the appointments of committees that was laid over from the annual meeting last fall, which provided for rotation, but no action will be taken upon it until tomorrow morning. An adjournment was taken until 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

APPLETON HIGHS IN OSHKOSH TOURNAMENT

LOCAL CAGERS NOTIFIED OF SELECTION FOR SECTIONAL COMBAT—PICK EIGHT TEAMS.

Appleton high basketball team has been picked as one of the eight teams for the sectional tournament to be played at Oshkosh March 4, 5 and 6. The winner will represent this district in the state tournament to be held at Madison two weeks later.

Notification of the selection was received by Coach Vincent Tuesday afternoon from the normal school authorities. No notice of the other teams chosen was given.

Appleton's splendid record of six victories and a single defeat for the season makes her a favorite in the coming tourney.

Appleton's record is not surpassed by any team in the district, and if the locals continue the form displayed in the Shawano game Saturday night, they will march straight to the state championship post.

In all probability, the other teams in the tourney will include Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Neenah, Menasha, Wauwatoma and Marinette.

LITTLE WANTS ADS BRING FORTH MIGHTY RESULTS

This story has a two-fold interest. It indicates the value of advertising, and points to an unprecedented demand for baby carriages in Appleton.

Following an "ad" in a local paper yesterday, an Appleton man received nine telephone calls from people who wished to purchase the article mentioned in the advertisement. When the first call came, the owner was ready to sell for $10, but after a sixth he boosted his price to $18—and got it.

Now here is another: Yesterday afternoon a want ad telling of a house for sale. Within three hours after the paper was published 23 persons made application for the building.

senators stated privately they intended to look into the affair when submission of the name of the new secretary for congressional approval gave them an opportunity to do so. As the appointment may be taken up in executive session, this debate is likely to take place in the committee which will consider the nomination.

Colby's latest connection with the Wilson administration was when he was a member of the United States shipping board. He resigned from that months ago.

Colby campaigned for Woodrow Wilson in 1916 after the progressive party convention of that year endorsed Charles E. Hughes, the republican nominee.

Colby was one of a group of nine progressives who insisted upon the nomination of Col. Theodore Roosevelt by the progressive party. After the nomination of Hughes by the republican convention, Roosevelt wired the progressive convention urging that the former supreme justice be endorsed. A resolution to this effect was introduced in the convention. Colby fought it vigorously, still demanding the nomination of Roosevelt. When the convention voted against him, he refused to accept Hughes and joined the democrats in support of Wilson.

Colby is a lawyer. His home is in New York. He was born in St. Louis in 1869.

During the republican national convention of 1912 he was in charge of the contest to seat Roosevelt delegates. He was one of the founders of the progressive party and a delegate to its first convention.

During the war he was a commissioner of the federal shipping board and a member of the emergency fleet corporation. He was a member of the American mission to the inter-allied conference at Paris in 1917.

ARMSTRONG CASE TO GO ON TRIAL IN RACINE MARCH 15

Mayor of Racine Faces Serious Charge in Divorce Action—Attorneys in Long Wrangle

Racine—Denying motion of both attorneys for plaintiff and defense in the Armstrong divorce action, in which Mayor William H. Armstrong is defendant, as to the time of trying the case, Judge W. B. Quinlan of Marinette in the Circuit court here on Tuesday instructed the attorneys to be prepared to proceed with the trial on Monday, March 15, when the statutory charge as alleged by Mrs. Armstrong in her complaint will be tried by a jury.

All day the attorneys fought over the time to be fixed by the court for the trying of the case. The attorneys for Mrs. Armstrong asked that the time be fixed for March 29 because of the illness of Mrs. Armstrong, her 5 months old baby and her sister, Mrs. Lillian Hall of Minneapolis.

Attorneys for Armstrong insisted on the case going to trial immediately because of the serious charge against their client and that Mrs. Hall is not a material witness in the statutory case.

The attorneys declared that they would not permit the baby to be brought into court during the trial because of a dispute over its parentage, which also will be an issue in the divorce action.

Judge Quinlan instructed the attorneys to engage physicians to go to the Armstrong home and examine the mother and child. A dozen physicians were telephoned to and not one would make the examinations, which were later made on Tuesday by Drs. C. K. Hahn, L. N. Schuetz and R. C. Thacker.

The testimony of the physicians differed somewhat as to whether or not the leaving of her child for a few hours by Mrs. Armstrong would in any manner endanger the health of the child.

MANY IMPORTANT MEASURES AWAIT CONGRESS ACTION

ENFORCEMENT OF PROHIBITION IS AMONG IMPORTANT BILLS TO BE DISPOSED OF SOON

Washington—Four of the most important questions now before congress are to be considered during the next few weeks by the house judiciary committee, Chairman Volstead announced today.

These are:

- 1—The proposition of changing some of the drastic provisions of the Volstead prohibition law, or framing additional clauses to stop "leaks" that have developed.

- 2—"The modification of sedition legislation from that previously proposed in the Graham bill.

- 3—"The question of whether congress shall take steps to provide for the disability of a president, by naming the vice president or secretary of state to take up his duties.

- 4—"Blue-sky" bills.

Because of the overwhelming "dry" majority in congress, it is considered doubtful if any measure will be reported taking some of the "dramatic" national prohibition, but proposals to allow state referendums on light beer and wine to increase the amount of liquor that may be prescribed for illness, to allow the sale of intoxicants on American vessels outside the three mile zone and other plans of the "wets" will be considered.

Despite the many objections to sedition legislation in any form it is believed probable that a bill will be reported affecting only those forces seeking to overthrow the government by force and violence.

The question of presidential disability has aroused unusual interest in the house since the Wilson-Lansing dispute and present indications are that some measure will be reported.

The prevailing opinion is that disability will be provided for without the passage of a constitutional amendment.

"Blue-sky" laws will be framed along the lines of a measure recently introduced by Volstead which gives the attorney general power over sales of securities and investments.

ALLIES ARE ABLE TO PAY OFF THEIR BONDS

AMERICAN FINANCIER IS CONFIDENT THAT DEBT WILL BE REPAYED IN AMERICAN DOLLARS

New York—Half a billion dollars worth of Anglo-French bonds, maturing here in October, will be paid promptly in good American dollars, in the opinion of the financiers of this country, according to William Ewing, head of the bond department of J. P. Morgan and company.

"There is nothing else for the British and French government to do and there is no doubt in the minds of American financiers of their ability to do it," Ewing said, in an interview today.

"With increasing British and French exports to this country, the trade balance will be gradually restored and the underlying cause of depreciation, exchange will be removed."

Two of the factors which will tend to stabilize exchange, Ewing said, are the listing of foreign industrial bonds in the open market here and the acceptance by American manufacturers of concerns of industrial bonds instead of gold in payment for shipments of goods to European countries.

"Hundreds of methods for bringing about stabilization of exchange are being discussed and tried out," Ewing declared. "And some of these are bound to have a good effect."

Residents of the east side of Teulah street in the Fourth ward, between Newberry and Maple Grove, want the street widened fifteen feet and have made a proposition to donate the land providing the city will improve the street. It has been prophesied that long distance telephoning from London to New York will soon be a matter of about 15 minutes and 25.

PUBLISHERS URGE CONGRESS TO GIVE THEM PRINT PAPER

INVESTIGATION OF PRINT SITUATION HAS BEEN ORDERED BUT BRINGS NO RESULTS

Washington—Congressmen today were receiving appeals from scores of publishers of small newspapers, urging that immediate legislative steps be taken to relieve the print paper famine. Many small newspapers must cease publication if the shortage continues. Some have already quit.

Measures for improving the situation have been proposed to congress but so far none of them has produced results. Three resolutions of investigation varying in scope, were introduced in the senate. One was adopted but no action resulted.

Senator Reed's resolution directing the committee on manufacturers to investigate the print paper situation generally and recommend legislation was referred to a sub-committee headed by Senator La Follette but he is ill and the investigation has not begun.

In the house, after a preliminary investigation the postoffice committee made an appeal to the large publishers to reduce paper in order that the smaller journals might be supplied. This step was taken with the understanding that if the voluntary operation did not relieve the situation within a few months, drastic legislation would be considered to exclude bulky publications from the second class mailing privileges.

Two bills are pending in the house to limit the size of newspapers, using mailing privileges. One proposed by Rep. Anthony, Kansas, fixes the maximum for dailies at 24 pages and another by Rep. Fuller, Illinois, at 16 pages.

A Frenchman has invented piano music printed on long sheets, so mounted on motor driven rolls that they are advanced as rapidly as a user wishes, saving the work of turning pages.

JOHNSON INVITES ROOSEVELT MANTLE TO FALL ON HIM

SUPPORTERS OF GENERAL WOOD BELIEVE HIS SHOULDERERS STRONG ENOUGH FOR BERDEN

Washington—The fight for Theodore Roosevelt's mantle is on among aspirants for the republican nomination for president.

Senator Hiram Johnson has laid first claim to it by making public through his campaign managers here a letter Col. Roosevelt wrote in 1916 in which he said that "Hiram Johnson is one of all the public men in this country whom I find myself in most complete sympathy. You are perfectly safe in following his lead."

This letter was written to Edgar Williams, a California official while Johnson was governor of that state. The Johnson forces declare it shows conclusively that were Col. Roosevelt choosing some one to wear his political mantle, Johnson would receive it.

General Leonard Wood's supporters, however, were ready today to dispute his claim. In the first place, they pointed out, the letter is four years old and conditions have greatly changed since then. And second, they argued, Roosevelt said that of the men in public life Johnson was the one with whom he was in closest sympathy. Wood was not in public life, but that did not mean he and Roosevelt were not in close sympathy, the Wood supporters pointed out.

Johnson is now setting out on the wind-up of his pre-primary campaign in the Dakotas. After canvassing the treaty situation in the senate Johnson decided to proceed with his campaign on the assumption that "the worst would happen" and the treaty would be ratified. He is therefore prepared to tell his audiences that so far as he is concerned, treaty ratification will not remove the pact from the campaign, and that he will fight for the nomination.

DRYS SQUELCH EFFORT TO REPEAL DRY LAW

Washington—An attempted "wet" offensive was stopped short in the house today and the "drys" won complete victory. An amendment to the legislative bill introduced by Rep. Igou, Missouri, which would have repealed the Volstead prohibition enforcement law July 1, 1920, was beaten 80 to 48.

Igou took the "drys" by surprise when he presented his proposal but they hurriedly marshaled their forces, adopted a cloture rule to shut off debate and then defeated the measure.

MAY DROP CHARGES AGAINST THE KAISER

PREMIERS' COUNCIL PRACTICALLY DECIDED NOT TO DEMAND ARREST OF FORMER EMPEROR

London—The council of premiers now is inclined to drop all its charges against the former kaiser, even if Holland persists in her position of refusal to heed the Allied suggestion that she banish William Hohenzollern from Europe, it was learned authoritatively today.

The council yesterday discussed the former emperor, it was learned and considered the attitude of the Dutch government. A change in the Allied attitude was apparent, reliable informants asserted.

At this morning's session the council parceled out the spheres of influence for the various Allied powers in Turkey, it was learned semi-officially. The council, it was said, virtually has decided that no Turkish territory will be annexed by any of the powers, but that each shall be allotted its "sphere of economic domination."

SHE'D RATHER BE A MINER THAN A CLERK IN A STUFFY STORE

DIGGING COAL ON HILLSIDE IS JOY OF LIFE AND SOURCE OF LIVELIHOOD TO AN EASTERLY MISS

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Pittsburg—Coal strikes may come and coal strikes may go—but they don't bother Miss Ricka Ott, 21 years old, who industriously mines coal day after day in a little "wagon mine" on her father's farm in the hills of Mt. Oliver, Pa., near Pittsburg.

For Miss Ricka is her own boss—miner, operator, manager and distributor. In fact, she is a general "jack of all trades."

But above all, she is a coal miner—and proudly admits it. Day after day she merrily wheels her "black diamonds" from the little hillside mine, while she hums the latest popular airs. Attired in "jumpers", her face beset with the grime of the mine, she may be found any day but Sunday with "Karlo"—that's her wheelbarrow—somewhere about the mine.

Three years ago, when all the mines of western Pennsylvania were working up to their capacity of production in an effort to keep a never-ending stream of coal flowing to the mills where weapons and munitions were being turned out, Ricka, with a desire to do something towards winning the war, suggested to her father, Gregor Ott, who worked in a steel mill, that they open a mine. He was opposed to the idea of giving up his job for the uncertainty of the small coal mine. Winter conditions invariably balked operations at the small mines, because roads invariably became impassable, he told Ricka.

"I'll mine the coal and sell it," she told her father. And he laughed. The idea of a girl mining coal and driving a truck! He told her the idea was preposterous. But to Ricka it wasn't. She "harked" on the subject until her father agreed to start the mine for her. And she has proved more than a match for other owners of the country. She says she has no cares or worries, except one—her fight with the Mount Oliver borough council.

Soon after Ricka had her mine fairly under way, and had coal orders stacked up high, the only road leading to her mine became almost impassable. Just as her father said it would. But Ricka was undaunted. She took a day off and went before borough council and presented her case. The borough fathers promised to do something—but they didn't do it. And Ricka still has the fight on her hands. She still has the almost impassable road, though she's making the best of it. But she insists the road is going to be fixed—and by the borough, too.

"To work out of doors, to be free and independent—that is the happiest part of my life," says Ricka. "I do not envy the girls who work in offices or stores, cooped up all day long and wearing those tight-fitting dresses. I love the sun and the fresh air, the his outdoors and the freedom. Many persons, no doubt, think I am strange to work so hard, but I am my own boss, the business is good, and, better than all, I am happy. I have worked in a store, but never again."

Last season Miss Ott mined 9,000 bushels of coal and distributed it to her customers. In addition, she helped her younger brothers, William and Carl, in the operation of a small farm. "Let Ricka do it," has come to be a familiar expression, she says. But withal, Miss Ricka has thorough femininity. She likes silks and pretty things, and has some positive views about the man who will share her future. She admits that she has thought of love, but only slightly. "I have not met many boys I care for," she says, "but I know the man must be one who loves a woman and a home, and until I meet that sort I will not be serious about love."

FRANCE CONTINUES HANDS OFF POLICY TOWARD THE RUSS

GOVERNMENT BELIEVES THAT SOVIETS SHOULD BE LEFT TO WORK OUT THEIR OWN SALVATION

(By Henry Wood)
Paris—France will continue her "hands off" policy toward Russia for the present leaving the soviet-ruled nation to work out its own salvation. It was stated in official circles here today.

With the Russian question up for discussion before the council of premiers in London and Premiers Millerand and Lloyd George apparently at the opposite poles of opinion with regard to recognition of the soviet government, officials believed France will not be the one to yield.

The French, it was said, cling to their opinion that the Moscow government must be shaken off by some internal upheaval, similar to that which resulted in the dethroning of the czar in 1917.

France does not favor Allied support of military invasion from the outside, leaders here asserted. The futility of such a plan, they pointed out, has been demonstrated sufficiently by the failure of Gen. Yudenitch, Admiral Kolchak and Gen. Denikin. It has retarded the French hope for an internal coup d'etat by solidifying the Russian people in support of the Lenin-Trotsky regime, they said. French officials also were skeptical as to the Allied plan to resume trade through the Russian cooperatives without recognition of Lenin.

"France has agreed to a trial of this plan out of deference to her Allies," one official said, "but she was never hopeful for its success. Granting that the cooperatives are independent of the soviet government the Allies still would be confronted with necessity for using transportation facilities controlled by the 'reds' to move products either into or out of Russia."

"We French also question the abundance of Russian supplies for exports. We doubt if Russia could release much raw materials even if she wished." Officials denied a report that the British, Italian and Japanese representatives had agreed on the plan to recognize the soviet government during Premier Millerand's absence from the council conferences last week.

BRITAIN IS READY FOR WARLIKE MOVES

CONSCRIPTION WILL BE ABOLISHED SOON BUT STANDING ARMY WILL BE LARGER.

London.—Conscription will be abolished in Great Britain on March 31, and within a month from that date the last conscript will be entitled to be released, it was announced by Winston Churchill, secretary for war, in moving the army estimates in the house of commons on Monday.

Mr. Churchill said that Great Britain's army should be slightly larger than before the war, but that she was returning to arms, which, in principle, were identical with those under which the country had lived before the war.

The secretary explained that new responsibilities overseas had been placed on the country, in consequence of the war, and that the whole eastern world, in which Britain was interested more than any other power, was in a state of extreme disquiet.

He stated that Great Britain had succeeded in raising and organizing an entirely new volunteer army of about 220,000, excluding troops serving in India.

The nation would be able with her reorganized army to place in the field, in case of emergency, a force supplied with the most modern arms and equipment, the war secretary declared.

Incidentally, he disclosed that a new tank had been produced, with speed of twenty miles an hour.

Mr. Churchill declared that Great Britain had fought at the peace conference for the abolition of conscription, but that there was no response at all to her representations.

All the other states had maintained compulsory service as the basis of their military system and apparently had no intention of departing from it. These states, he added, included even the United States, which was the originator of the league of nations, and Russia, "the home of advanced political thought."

Mr. Churchill emphasized his confidence in what the country would say, when the general election came, to a government which, in abolishing conscription, had set an example to the whole world, "even to pious America."

The army vote for £75,000,000, on account of which the debate was raised, was agreed to by 215 to 52.

JOHNNY COULON IS LURED BACK TO RING

FORMER FLYWEIGHT CHAMP BELIEVES HE CAN MAKE STARS HUSTLE SOME IN THE ARENA

By Fred Turbyville
(Special to Post-Crescent)

They don't come back very often, but here is Johnny Coulon bidding another entry into the hall of fame. Johnny is a bit bald-headed but in other respects quite all together as far as the naked eye can see. He is just past 30 and declares himself that he never was in better physical condition than now and that the army life of the past few years has brought him back into his own as a boxer. And he really believes he is coming back and make a lot of trouble for the other little fellows. Johnny is matched to box Charles Ledoux in Paris, March 3. He is now on his way across the Atlantic. His last fight was in 1917 with Pete Herman. He lasted three rounds and Herman was the victor.

But I didn't start in to write a story about Coulon's record. There is just one particular angle to it, though, that impresses me. Johnny probably gave away as much weight—he says more—as Jimmy Wilde ever gave away. America has never laid any particular claims to flyweight championships. But did you know that Johnny Coulon always has been a flyweight and fought most of his battles with boys weighing from 10 to 15 pounds heavier?

Coulon started at the age of 14. He was an amateur for some time and weighed only 72 pounds in his street clothes. His daddy, "Pop" Coulon, wanted to see Johnny become a great boxer and he watched over him through the amateur stage.

Johnny showed up at an amateur tourney in Kid Howard's gymnasium. The Kid looked at the scales when Johnny stepped on and told him he'd better vamoose. But Johnny stuck through derisive laughter, and his dad wanted to bet $100 he could whip any of the other lads. They selected Danny Goodman, who weighed around 110, and Johnny won. Later Goodman was matched with Coulon in Johnny's first professional fight. Again he beat Goodman. Johnny weighed 98 and Goodman 113.

"I never weighed over 110 in the ring," said Johnny. "I probably have been as heavy as 115 since losing the title, but I easily make 110 today. I only weighed 105½ when I fought Conley."

"I have given away more weight than Wilde or any of them."

"And, say, I'm just as good today."

"Would I like a fight with Wilde?"

"I'll say I would."

NATIONAL GUARDS WILL STAGE ATHLETIC MEET

Intra-Company Sports Will be Followed up With Tournament at Annual State Encampment

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Muskegon—With a view of giving the members of the Wisconsin National Guard better physical training than in the past considerable of the army physical training plan will be adopted and inter-company matches are planned to end with a general athletic meet in camp as the two week period of the encampment will enable more time to be devoted to athletics than formerly.

The events will consist of boxing, field meets base ball, bayonet work, and fencing and other athletic contests. As much as the Camp Pike course as is adaptable for guard purposes will be taken up.

The bayonet work will not be limited to the double time movements, thrusts and jabs that were taught in the army, but masks and pads will be provided for each company to enable fencing being taken up. It is probable that squads will also be entered in bayonet competition, the marking being done by former instructors in this line of work.

Award being made on the form displayed in going over the trenches, under wire and thrusts into the dummies.

Baseball teams will be organized in each company and in addition to inter-company games at the home station there will be allotted time for the carrying out of a camp schedule. Considerable time will be devoted to boxing at the home stations between company members. Inter-company matches may also be held and championship bouts staged at camp.

Contests in equitation will be planned for mounted organizations to consist of horse races, hurdling, jumping ditches, bareback riding, etc.

PRISON DOCTOR DISCOVERS A NEW 'MEMORY JUICE'

By United Press Leased Wire
San Quentin, Cal.—Dr. Leo L. Stanley, of the San Quentin prison staff, has perfected a "memory juice."

The first test Stanley said, performed on Robert Lockwood, serving a term here for grand larceny, restored Lockwood's memory lost in 1917. Lockwood suffered from aphasia. His real name is Fred Burley. He formerly lived in Plattsburg, N. Y., and is said to have a wife and family in New York.

The new serum is injected in the spine. Aphasia is cured shortly after the first injection, according to Dr. Stanley.

ONEIDA'S HOLD ON FIRST PLACE IS LESS SECURE

The Oneidas, rendered the top position of the Sioux a bit more shaky by winning two out of three games in the St. Paul Recreation club volleyball games Monday evening at St. Paul school hall. The Chippewas, in their battle with the Menominees, took two out of three games, and tied themselves for third place. The tie and the possible chance of soon dislodging the Sioux from their snug position is creating new interest in the series. The present standing of the teams is as follows:

	W	L
Sioux	35	25
Oneidas	29	31
Menominees	28	32

NEARLY 3,000,000 IN CHICAGO, TRIBUNE SAYS

Known as Laziest of Birds
The laziest of birds is the frogmouth. He sleeps all day, and at night, instead of flying about in search of food, he sits on a limb and literally waits for the insects to come and feed him. He is such a sound sleeper that you can push him off his perch with a stick and not wake him. He inhabits Australia and the islands of the Indian ocean. In size the frogmouth resembles the whippoorwill, and gets his name from his wide mouth, which serves as his insect trap. Too lazy to fly for his food, like other birds, he crawls along the limb of a tree, opening his wide mouth and snapping it shut, catching what flies and gnats come within his range. At night he perches with his mate on the roofs of houses, on fence or chimneys. Only after the sun goes down does he show any inclination to move about.

A pearl necklace valued at $1,000 four years ago would cost $5,000 today.

HIGH SCHOOL SURE OF GETTING INTO TOURNAY

Appleton Cagers Have Best Record in This District — Play Sturgeon Bay Here Friday Night

Coach Vincent's quintet of the high school is preparing for the final scheduled game of the season Friday with Sturgeon Bay before the opening of the sectional tourney at Oshkosh.

While no definite word giving Appleton a place in the tourney had been received from Oshkosh up to this morning, the locals are practically assured of entrance. Not a single team in the section has a better record than Coach Vincent's five. An Oshkosh dispatch mentions Appleton as among the strongest contenders.

The Sturgeon Bay game at Alexander gym Friday night will wind up the home season, and the biggest crowd of the year is expected. Appleton defeated the visitors at Sturgeon Bay 67 to 8, indicating that there will be little difficulty in garnering another win Friday night.

HOLY NAME GRAPPLERS AND "Y" MEET AGAIN

Junior Holy Name Society and Y. M. C. A. wrestling teams will stage a return meet at the Y. M. C. A. next week. No definite date has been set, but the matches will be held either March 5 or 6.

The previous battle between the two squads was hard fought, and brought out some interesting matches. Both teams are strong and the return battles should be corkers.

What's the use, Folks—What's the Use!

WHY take honest-to-John Tobacco that nature grew for us all—and then "spill the beans" by messing it up with lolly pops?

Velvet isn't fooled with that way.

Velvet has just naturally relied on Nature since it was knee-high to a grasshopper.

First off, it was bred in old Kentucky, wonderland of Tobacco.

Next come, it was cured in the open air, right out with the good ole sunshine. Yes sir.

THEN it was gentled along by its lonesome for two years, while it just kind of thought things over and decided to have no bad qualities.

After these two years in wooden hogsheds it was packed in the jolly red tin you see everywhere, if you're not color blind—and we hope you're not.

As Velvet Joe says:

"The way Nature does things is best for man and his tobacco. You can't fool Nature—an' she won't fool you."

FIFTEEN cents seems a pickayune price, doesn't it, after all that?

Can you think, right off, of anything more or better for a dime and a nickel? And for cigarette smokers—there are 45 mellow cigarettes in every Velvet tin.

Velvet sure will be right glad to meet you this very day.

CHEAPER MILK IS IN PROSPECT FOR POOR OLD CONSUMER

STOPPAGE OF CONDENSED MILK EXPORTS CUTS OUT COMPETITION AND PRICE FALLS

Which will we get, cheaper cheese or cheaper milk? One or the other ought to come down to earth if a recent situation continues.

Due to the falling exchange rate in England, condensed milk manufactured for export is now flooded the markets of our own country. The result of the market being snatched away suddenly is that some of the condensaries further north of here have closed down entirely, and others are paying the farmers the lowest price in a year or more for their milk supply.

Within a few months the price paid for milk at the Greenville condensary dropped from $3.70 to $3.40 per hundred pounds, and it now costs 15 cents instead of 10 cents to have the milk hauled to the factory.

The meaning of all this is that the creameries and cheese factories will have all the milk they want and more. One cheese factory in the north in a locality where the condensary had closed, was offered 13,000 pounds of milk in one day and as its capacity was only 10,000 pounds, about 3,000 pounds practically went begging for a market. During the war, the cheese factories and condensaries were bidding against each other to get the country's milk supply to fill the enormous demand for both products, with the result that the creameries and milk men had to come up to the same terms in order to secure their supply of milk for the retail trade. The consumer has therefore paid a fancy price, in many cases more than double what it was a few years ago. With the bidding in the market stopped, it is thought that the wholesale prices will come down, and that some day after the consumer has shown that he is on to the situation, the price of this household necessity will begin to move back to that good old price where one could afford to take twice as much a day and some cream for his coffee beside.

If milk prices do not undergo a change, it seems sure that cheese will come down at least a few cents a pound. A plentiful milk supply means much to the cheese manufacturers, and if there has been any inflation of price because of the competition to secure the raw material, it will soon disappear.

In Outagamie county there has been little change noted in the situation except in the lowering of the price by condensaries. The farmers have expressed no dissatisfaction as yet with the lower price paid to them, but in summing up the situation from an economic standpoint, there is a ray of hope for the poor old consumer.

TUTTLE PRESS COMPANY IN ITS NEW OFFICES

Administration Rooms Are Located on Second Floor New Addition to the Company's Plant.

The office of the Tuttle Press Company have been moved to the new addition which was recently completed. They give much more room for the administration of business details and are arranged around the outside of the second story in such a way that they all have windows toward the street. A new switch board has been installed and other equipment added. The arrangement also gives easy access to the factory from any department.

The company has enjoyed a continual growth in the past few years, causing one addition after another to be made. The present facilities seem hardly sufficient to take care of the immense amount of business which it enjoys, although the plant is being run to its full capacity. No slump is looked for for some time to come.

"SYRUP" OF FIGS IS LAXATIVE FOR CHILD

Look at tongue! Remove poisons from stomach, liver and bowels.

The importance of examining children for signs of malnutrition was especially emphasized. Dr. Brumbaugh pointed out that cases of malnutrition do not exist in the families of the poor alone. Unless the teeth are in proper condition, he said, they cannot be a normal state of health.

The pet theory that most mothers have that measles and whooping cough are inevitable was strongly attacked by Dr. Brumbaugh. He mentioned instances where mothers had deliberately exposed their children to the diseases, feeling that "they had to get them sometime and it might as well be now." He said that in 1917, 12,000 children in the registered area died of measles while only 7,000 died of scarlet fever. He further stated that more children die of measles and whooping cough than die of small pox, scarlet fever, and diphtheria together.

Dr. Brumbaugh closed his talk with a final plea for a bigger and greater nation in the persons of our children, which he said can only be brought about by molding intelligent public sentiment.

IGNORANCE IS THE BIGGEST OBSTACLE TO HEALTHY NATION

APPLETON WOMAN'S CLUB IS TOLD THAT CHILDREN ARE ENTITLED TO THE BEST OF CARE

The public health talk given last night before the meeting of the Appleton Woman's club by Dr. E. V. Brumbaugh, Milwaukee, of the Wisconsin Anti-tuberculosis association, marks the beginning of one of the biggest works the club has undertaken.

"There are so many things of importance pressing upon the attention of modern civilization, that the problem of public health is not what to do, but what to do first," noted Dr. Brumbaugh's opening words. He then proceeded to show how the care of public health has always been the chief concern even in most ancient times. He took the Bible for example, giving the many instances which it contains of the care of public health.

His talk however was really based on modern day health problems, devoting itself mainly to the problem of children's health. But before entering on that subject, he said a few words about the steadily increasing mortality of adults not at old age but usually around 45 years, the time of life which should be the best. He stated that we had more than doubled the extent of human life, but that the increase was mainly in childhood. For the general causes of the high mortality of adults he gave cancer, Bright's disease, hardening of the arteries, and diabetes.

In taking up the discussion of children's disease, Dr. Brumbaugh gave some interesting figures of the value of human life. He stated that a new born baby was worth $95 in round numbers to the community, the five year old child was worth $960, the 20 year old $4,000, the 50 year old, $2,700. And yet many a community will not spend ten cents per capita to insure the health of its members.

The speaker made a special appeal to the women that in the pressing call of Armenia and other starving and needy countries outside, they should not forget that right here at home, in the United States there are 6,000,000 starving children. Six million children, starving and suffering from malnutrition, not because of poverty but because of ignorance.

"Ignorance is the most colossal thing we have to contend with," were the speaker's words.

Further startling facts in regard to the conditions of the children were revealed. There are 10,000,000 children in this country with bad teeth, there are 10,000,000 children infected with tuberculosis, 2,000,000 of whom will die; there are 4,000,000 children with defective vision; there are 2,000,000 children with infected tonsils; 1,000,000 children with swollen glands; 1,000,000 children with curvature of the spine; 3,000,000 children suffering serious nervous conditions, the speaker said.

"These are cold facts," he said, "but they are facts which we must know in order to handle the situation."

"Where does the care of the child begin? In the school? No!" was Dr. Brumbaugh's emphatic answer. "It must begin before the school. Every child has a right to be well born, and every child has a right to be well reared. Health is more important than education."

Dr. Brumbaugh strongly emphasized the need of prenatal care, and the need for the care of the mother. He touched on the question of mother's pensions by the state to enable mothers to devote their entire time to the care of their babies. He gave statistics showing how breast fed babies have fifteen times the chance that the bottle fed babe has.

Of over 1,000 babies born a year, from a 100 to 150 die within the year. The thing that stands out most strongly in this statement is the fact that of this number, the usual cause for death is gastro-intestinal diseases, and that again signifies "ignorance" as the speaker emphatically pointed out.

Leaving the subject of babies, the speaker went on to the problem of the children who have grown up, neglected by their parents and bearing the burden of infection from their parents, infection from their food. This brought up the question of the regulations regarding tubercular herds but Dr. Brumbaugh did not dwell on it to any extent beyond saying that it was a matter of education.

The importance of examining children for signs of malnutrition was especially emphasized. Dr. Brumbaugh pointed out that cases of malnutrition do not exist in the families of the poor alone. Unless the teeth are in proper condition, he said, they cannot be a normal state of health.

The pet theory that most mothers have that measles and whooping cough are inevitable was strongly attacked by Dr. Brumbaugh. He mentioned instances where mothers had deliberately exposed their children to the diseases, feeling that "they had to get them sometime and it might as well be now." He said that in 1917, 12,000 children in the registered area died of measles while only 7,000 died of scarlet fever. He further stated that more children die of measles and whooping cough than die of small pox, scarlet fever, and diphtheria together.

Dr. Brumbaugh closed his talk with a final plea for a bigger and greater nation in the persons of our children, which he said can only be brought about by molding intelligent public sentiment.

German Treasurer Resigns From Post

ERZBERGER WANTS TO BE RE-LEAVED UNTIL CLEARED OF CHARGES OF FAKING TAX RETURNS.

(By Carl D. Groat.)
By United Press. Berlin.—President Ebert has accepted the request of Matthias Erzberger, minister of finance, that he be suspended from his ministry until cleared of charges that he falsified his personal tax returns, it was learned today.

The president's decision, it was generally believed, marks the end of Erzberger's connection with the finance ministry. The under secretary of state will assume Erzberger's post.

Erzberger asked a trial to determine the truth or falsity of the charges, carried originally in a Hamburg newspaper. The newspaper asserted Erzberger has far under estimated his personal wealth, paying taxes only on a nominal income.

The virtual resignation came as the result of a considerable fight by Erzberger to prove the charges made against him. His suit against Dr. Karl Helfferich, former minister to Russia, was designed, newspapers declared, to establish his innocence.

Helfferich has charged the finance minister was a "dangerous member of the government."

Instead of establishing his innocence, however, it was generally conceded that Erzberger only involved himself deeper. At today's sessions of the trial serious charges were made against him by a state's attorney who accused Erzberger of smuggling his private wealth out of Germany.

CANDY MAKERS NOT BOTHERED BY THE SUGAR SHORTAGE

WHEN SUPPLY RAN LOW THEY MADE CANDY THAT CONTAINED LESS OF THE SCARCE ARTICLE

While the sugar shortage is still being felt by Appleton candy makers, the difficulty of securing the sweet article is not as great as last year, asserts an Appleton manufacturer.

Candy makers which require a great deal of sugar are simply being omitted, he said.

In many ways the situation has been of a great benefit to candy makers in that they have turned to new lines of product which they would never have taken up, E. J. Herrmann stated.

Relatively less sugar is being used than ever before in the manufacture of candy. "We get by with as little sugar as possible," Mr. Herrmann said.

"Despite the shortage of sugar, however," Mr. Herrmann said, "more candy has been manufactured in the last two years than the output in five previous years."

"While sugar is the chief basic raw material used by candy manufacturers, there are many other kinds of raw materials used in large quantities, such as syrups, fruits, molasses, and other food products."

"The cream candy, while not of an expensive brand, calls for nearly all sugar. These numbers were simply omitted and as little sugar as possible was used in manufacture."

"You can't drink whisky, but you can eat it," was the statement of a government official recently. "His statement could be interpreted literally by candy manufacturers, and in fact the trick has been tried. According to Mr. Herrmann he has not heard of this article recently, but five years ago such a candy number was common."

"Various kinds of candy average only 50 per cent sugar and many kinds contain much less than that amount, which accounts for the relatively small sugar use of the confectionery industry."

One million, two hundred thousand pounds of sugar was used by manufacturers in 1918, according to statistics. This includes canned fruits, and vegetables, bakery products, condensed milk, ice cream, soft drinks. Candy manufacturers used only eight per cent.

It has been said that if the candy manufacturers were prevented from using any sugar whatever for an entire year, the total amount would increase the supply available for household consumption to the extent of only a teaspoonful per person per day.

CANDY MAKERS NOT BOTHERED BY THE SUGAR SHORTAGE

WHEN SUPPLY RAN LOW THEY MADE CANDY THAT CONTAINED LESS OF THE SCARCE ARTICLE

While the sugar shortage is still being felt by Appleton candy makers, the difficulty of securing the sweet article is not as great as last year, asserts an Appleton manufacturer.

Candy makers which require a great deal of sugar are simply being omitted, he said.

In many ways the situation has been of a great benefit to candy makers in that they have turned to new lines of product which they would never have taken up, E. J. Herrmann stated.

Relatively less sugar is being used than ever before in the manufacture of candy. "We get by with as little sugar as possible," Mr. Herrmann said.

"Despite the shortage of sugar, however," Mr. Herrmann said, "more candy has been manufactured in the last two years than the output in five previous years."

"While sugar is the chief basic raw material used by candy manufacturers, there are many other kinds of raw materials used in large quantities, such as syrups, fruits, molasses, and other food products."

"The cream candy, while not of an expensive brand, calls for nearly all sugar. These numbers were simply omitted and as little sugar as possible was used in manufacture."

"You can't drink whisky, but you can eat it," was the statement of a government official recently. "His statement could be interpreted literally by candy manufacturers, and in fact the trick has been tried. According to Mr. Herrmann he has not heard of this article recently, but five years ago such a candy number was common."

"Various kinds of candy average only 50 per cent sugar and many kinds contain much less than that amount, which accounts for the relatively small sugar use of the confectionery industry."

AFTER MOTHERHOOD

Kalamazoo, Mich.—"After motherhood
I was in very poor health, run down. I got very thin and my strength was all gone.
I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it began to help me at once and three bottles was all I needed to put me in good condition. It is a splendid medicine."
MRS. LILLIE ALLAN, 1558 N. Edwards St.

THOUSANDS OF SUFFERING WOMEN

Kalamazoo, Mich.—"I cannot write enough to express my thanks for being able to recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Motherhood left me in a very bad condition of which my doctor could not help me, but 'Favorite Prescription' has done wonders for me. I took two bottles of the 'Prescription' and was helped wonderfully, being able to do my own housework and other work besides. I feel like a new woman. I will do all in my power to help other sufferers. I wish I could speak to the thousands of suffering women who have tried so many other remedies and advise them to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."—MRS. W. C. HINDS.

WOMAN'S TROUBLE

Saginaw, Mich.—"I have used Dr.
Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Pleasant
Pills and they cured me of my ailment.
A few years ago I was taken with a bad case of feminine trouble. I was sick about six months. I felt miserable. Could not eat, got very thin, and in fact was in a very much run-down condition so I thought I would try Dr. Pierce's remedies and in less than six weeks I was completely cured."
MRS. MILD EVANS, Box 1.

WHOLE FAMILY CURED

Bay City, Mich.—"Dr. Pierce's medicines have been used in my family for over thirty years and I think everyone related to me has used them and was cured.
"My husband took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for his blood and for other complaints, so did my brother, and it alone did what was required of it.
"My little son took Dr. Pierce's Golden
Medical Discovery as well, whenever I was not feeling right.
I never need a doctor. Dr. Pierce's medicines have been my 'family doctor' for years. I can recommend them to all. If directions are followed they will always do the work."

GREAT POLITICAL POWER RESTS IN THE HANDS OF TEN WOMEN

DIRECTORS OF NEW LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS ARE IN CONTROL OF FORMIDABLE
MACHINE (By Ruth E. Finley)

Chicago.—Look out for the Big Ten in the next presidential election!
They are the all-powerful board of directors of the New League of Women Voters, which was the outgrowth of the National Woman Suffrage Association at its 51st and last annual convention.

The suffrage association automatically dies with the ratification of the Susan B. Anthony amendment. The new league represents 20,000-000 potential woman voters.

The organization of this league into regions, state and sub-state divisions creates a machine of formidable strength. There is no doubt but that the two great parties of the country feared the formation of an active Woman's Party. In fact there were well founded rumors of just such a thing.

In her speech at the victory banquet, Mrs. Olson of Minnesota,
an active Democrat, named Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the National Woman Suffrage Association, as "a states-woman capable of adequately occupying the office of president of the United States." Many such references to Mrs. Catt were made in various speeches and even in party caucuses.

But as soon as Republican and Democratic women, prodded and guided by the men of their parties, began fighting to put their representatives in the executive office of the new organization any dream of a sex party went smash.

The plan of the League of Women

Voters as finally adopted places almost unlimited power in the hands of 10 women. These 10 women are the seven regional directors and three directors-at-large.

The seven regions with the women
directors elected are as follows:
Region I—New England states,
Director, Miss Katherine Luddington of Connecticut.
Region II—New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware. Mrs. F. Louis Slade of New York.

Region III—Virginia, District of Columbia, North Carolina, South
Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Florida,
Mississippi, Louisiana and Tennessee. Miss Della Dortch of Tennessee.

Region IV—Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Illinois, West Virginia and Wisconsin. Miss Elizabeth Hauser of Ohio.

Region V—Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming and Montana. Mrs. James Page of Minnesota.

Region VI—Nebraska, Kansas,
Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma,
Texas, Arkansas and Missouri. Mrs.
George Gellhorn of Missouri.

Region VII—Washington, Oregon,
Idaho, Nevada, Utah, Arizona and California. Mrs. C. B. Simmons of Oregon.

Directors at large:
Mrs. Richard Edwards of Indiana,
Mrs. Solon Jacobs of Alabama and
Mrs. Maud Wood Park of Boston.

Mrs. Jacobs, better known as Patty
Jacobs, director-at-large, and Miss Dortch, director of Region No. 3, are ardently active Democrats. Mrs.
Park, also director-at-large, and who was elected by the 10 directors as chairman of the league, is claimed by the Republicans, though she has refused to take a political stand publicly.

A homing pigeon bearing the name of Ben Holt was announced as having established a new long distance flight record of 2200 miles in the summer of 1915 from Norwalk, O. to Los Angeles, Cal.

DEAD MEN'S ESTATES SOLD FOR PENNIES

AUCTIONS OF PROPERTY IN ST.
PAUL MORGUE BRINGS
OUT BARGAIN
SEEKERS

(Special to Post-Crescent)
St. Paul, Minn.—The estates of dead men sold for pennies here. Behind a marble table in the county morgue the coroner disposed by auction last week of the pitiful fragments of property left by St. Paul's unknown dead in 1919.

When relatives or near friends of those whose bodies are brought to the morgue make no claims to their "estates" the law requires public sale.

"This watch," said the coroner, and held it up, battered, worth $1 once, "stopped when its owner died. I says 10 minutes to 10."

"Maybe that was his zero hour," commented a woman in black, "I bid
25 cents."

Then came the razor an old man used to slit his throat. The bidding was high, but the woman in black, confirmed auction fiend, bought it for 70 cents.

There was a knife.
"A little rusty," said the coroner,
"I think we found this fellow in the river."

Postcards, bits of cloth, a bottle opener, keys, a locket with a broken back—all things that meant in their own private way much—maybe all—to someone once, were heaped over by the woman in black and her rival bidders, then sold by the state for copper and silver.

"Two estates left," announced the "auctioneer." "I don't suppose anybody wants this."

He held up the soiled, blood stained discharge paper of James Alton, enetime soldier of the land.

"I'll take that. Here's a dime," snapped a bidder with two gold rings on his sleeve. My American Legion post'll try to find his folks."

"And this," continued the coroner and carried to view a bedraggled
Bible, its imitation leather, puffed and swollen by moisture.

"Gimme," barked the woman in black, "I want that! I bid 15 cents."

She carried away the Bible that once was Ole Johnson's. "He gave his heart to God at the Union Gospel Mission, Dec. 2, 1914," was the fading legend on the fly-leaf.

TO OBSERVE THRIFT WEEK FIRST SEVEN DAYS NEXT MONTH

SYSTEMATIC CAMPAIGN WILL BE WAGED TO ENCOURAGE HABITS OF SAVING IN APPLETON

The first week in March has been designated by the Treasury Department at Washington as "Thrift week." At this time a campaign will be waged among the school children and throughout the entire city to encourage the buying of Thrift and War Savings Stamps.

It is the aim of the government to influence saving among the working classes especially. With the present high wages, there is a tendency to lavish the easily-obtained money on luxuries previously denied the man of limited means, officials state, and any move to counteract this tendency will rebound to the benefit of the worker later. Thrift now will accomplish nearly twice what it might later in the accumulation of savings, as the financial experts of the country warn that the existing inflation of values cannot continue for a much longer period.

Thrift stamps may be purchased at the postoffice or ordered from the mail carrier at 25 cents each. Sixteen of these saved will entitle the holder to one War Savings stamp. This month they sell for $4.13 and in March they will cost $4.14. At the end of five years, they will be redeemed by the government for $5, giving a liberal interest on the money thus invested. There is no fluctuation in value, no loss of interest and they may be disposed of on ten days notice to the postoffice without paying any premium for cashing them.

CHURCHILL PANNED FOR SNEER AT U.S.

LONDON NEWSPAPER TAKES BRITISH WAR SECRETARY TO TASK FOR HIS SPEECH

By United Press Leased Wire
London.—The comment of Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary of state for war in the house of commons, Monday on the United States is "less excusable from a man who is himself half American," the Daily News said today.

The newspaper's parliamentary correspondent quoted Churchill as saying that through reducing her way to the size of these nations which expect protection from her, Great Britain has set an example to the world, even to "pious America."

The remark was an "unseemly sneer," the Daily News added. The newspaper said Churchill hinted possible definite engagements to France in substitution for the proposed Franco-British American alliance. If France wishes to enforce the treaty of Versailles to the letter, it said, Great Britain would be unfair to let her think that the British will back up such a policy. It is realized here The News continued, that the treaty must be revised.

The war minister estimated that 35,000 troops must be kept in Ireland, compared to 25,000 before the war. He said he did not agree with Lord Fisher's statement that an air armada and a submarine fleet would be sufficient to hold the empire.

OLD ELM TREE FALLS BEFORE WOODMAN'S SAW

A large elm tree over one hundred years old which stood back of the No. 3 engine house and whose branches overhung the street car barn, has just been cut down by Jacob Lohn and Wallie Smith. On account of its close proximity to the two buildings it was necessary to remove the branches before cutting down the trunk. The tree was nearly three feet in diameter at the stump and has been cut into stovewood. The saw came in contact with spikes and staples used by linemen that had become imbedded in the wood. The tree was struck by lightning ten years ago and was badly shattered, but was still alive when cut down.

COAL SHORTAGE CAUSES KRUPP PLANT TO CLOSE

Nephew of Mike Wagner Asserts People in This District Are Suffering From Food Shortage

People of Siegen, Germany, are greatly in need of food, clothing and fuel according to a letter which Mike Wagner has just received from George Wagner, his nephew. Mr. Wagner has been employed in the Krupp plant for the last 24 years and writes that it had just closed down on account of having no coal. Mr. Wagner sent his nephew several strips of bacon and some bologna, which was the first he had in six years. There is practically no gold or silver in circulation and a 20 mark gold piece is now worth 200 marks in currency. During the war the government confiscated all rubber tires on automobiles and bicycles. Bicycle tires are now selling at 250 marks and it is Mr. Wagner's intention to send his nephew several at once.

CUT SWITCH RUNS TO HANDLE WOOD SHIPMENTS

On account of the increased amount of pulpwood that is arriving, the Northwestern Railroad company has cut in two the former switch run between Appleton Junction and Kaukauna of which Conductor Louis Perry of Kaukauna formerly had charge. Hereafter Conductor Perry's run will be between the Ashland division depot in Appleton and Kaukauna, distributing wood to the intervening mills, while the run between Appleton Junction and the Appleton yards will be in charge of Conductor John Carters. Between forty and fifty carloads of pulpwood are arriving daily.

INCREASE SEATING ROOM IN COLLEGE GYMNASIUM

Bleachers for the Alexander gymnasium of Lawrence college are expected here this week. They will increase the seating room of the gymnasium by about 300 seats, thus relieving the crowded conditions which always arise at the games.

The bleachers are of the folding and movable type so that they can be removed after each game. This means that the gymnasium space will not be decreased to any extent during regular gymnasium hours.

HAD DATE TO GET KILLED; MAY SERVE ON JURY INSTEAD

By United Press Leased Wire
Tombstone, Ariz.—The Bisbee deportation trial apparently ruined prospects for a friendly shooting scrape between two cattlemen of Chiricahua mountain. Deputy sheriffs are returning from the mountains and deserts after summoning the sixth venire brought Andrew Hoska, who won the prize for queer excuses for not coming to court. "I just got to finish this fence," Andrew told the officers.

TWO RINGS MEAN NICKEL IN CHURCH COLLECTION

Bright Treasurer of Brazil, Ind., Church Snells the Contributions Until Patrons Ask Change of Financing Plan
(By Lorry A. Jacobs.)
New York.—New York will probably modify the idea if it is adopted here because, even if they didn't like it out at Brazil, Ind., you have to admit that it was a good idea, and that you couldn't be a collection slacker at church if the plan were used. But the story, as told here at a church convention, is as follows:

A. B. Cooper, who was a business man of Brazil, Ind., was chosen secretary-treasurer of a Presbyterian Sunday school. That carried with it the honor of taking up the collection. Now, Mr. Cooper being a business man, became tired of passing the hat down long rows to have some members simply look at the ceiling as it went by.

So he decided to be modern, and one Sunday appeared at the collection taking time with a street car conductor's register strapped around his waist. And when 5 cents was given Mr. Cooper rang the bell twice. When it was a quarter, the bell rang five times.

And even those who succeeded in abolishing the plan had to admit that collections picked up. Perhaps jealousy of Mr. Cooper of Brazil, Ind., and his lack of consideration for New York in thinking of something first, will prevent the plan from being adopted here, but it wouldn't be surprising to see a subway ticket taker installed at the door of one of the churches here one of these days.

KNEW WILL WAS NOT LEGAL, ATTORNEY SAYS

FORMER ATTORNEY GENERAL WICKERSHAM ADMITS THAT HE WAS PARTY TO ILLEGAL DOCUMENT

New York.—George W. Wickersham, former attorney general of the United States, testifying under cross examination on Monday at the contest over the will of Mrs. Rosa F. Spang, widow of a millionaire Pittsburgh steel manufacturer, under one clause of which he would have been one of the three beneficiaries, admitted that when he drew the instrument he knew that some of its provisions were in conflict with the laws of New York and Pennsylvania, and that, under certain circumstances one-third of the $2,000,000 fund intended for charity would have reverted to his personal estate.

This admission was made under questioning by Edgar T. Brackett, former state senator, counsel for Mrs. Mabel Spang Ancker of Copenhagen, Denmark, the only child, who was left an annuity of $10,000 by her mother, in addition to another of $20,000, left her by her father, Charles Spang, whose estate was valued at $3,000,000.

Died Shortly After.
Mrs. Spang died within forty-eight hours after the will was executed. After providing an annuity for her daughter, she left the bulk of her fortune to establish the Rosa F. Spang foundation for young children on her estate at Peekskill, N. Y.

The will contained the provision that should this bequest be in conflict with state laws, the residue go to Mr. Wickersham, Col. Michael Friedman and Dr. Henry Dwight Chapin, the testator relying on them to carry out her wishes.

READY TO START SHIPMENT OF GRAIN TO EUROPE

By United Press Leased Wire
New York.—The United States Grain Corporation awaits only authorization from congress to begin shipment of ten million barrels of flour to cities in Austria, Hungary, Poland, Bohemia and Armenia, it was learned today.

Appeal for this flour was made recently by the American relief administration. Grain corporation officials said today that this amount of flour already is on the Atlantic seaboard and that decline of foreign exchange had made available sufficient tonnage. Most of this flour was bought on the Pacific coast.

The flour would be sold on credit at $10.75 a barrel. The cost of transportation added to this would make the total cost between $125,000,000 and $150,000,000. A surplus of about 60,000,000 barrels of flour remain in this country from last year's wheat crop.

EVEN ANCIENT MUMMIES HAD BACTERIAL INFECTIONS

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—The ghosts of Egyptian mummies stalked in court here today to offer testimony.

Testimony of even more weight, based on age, was to be offered by the ancient Dinosauria. Mrs. George A. Barnore, claimed by health official to be a typhoid carrier began her fight for liberty. The health department, wishing her to be isolated, put famous bacteriologists on the stand. Dr. Arthur I. Kendall, bacteriologist of the Northwestern University, denied bacterial infection is "new fangled."

"Traces of such infection were found on Egyptian mummies," Kendall said.

"Before that Dinosauria suffered from tubercular bacilli."
